TEN THOUSAND CHILDREN ON THE GO

The Schools Will Likely Be Over ed-Very Little Additional Room This Year.

corrow morning all of the city school will open and the little men and women ston will settle themselves down to another siege of knowledge secking. Sumpastimes will be discarded and the work of cultivating the mind and equipping the scholars for the battle of life will

There will be about 1200 more children to present themselves for admission to the city schools this term than were in at-tendance last season, the scholastic pop-ulation of Houston having increased to

The present school facilities are inade-quate to accommodate all of the children who will attend during the coming term and the school rooms will doubtless be overcrowded. The only addition that has been made to the school facilities is a small school room on McGowen avenue in small school room on McGowen avenue in what is known as the Dowdell building. The Poest is requested to say that this school room will be a part of the Fannin street school and will employ but one teacher. She will have one, or possibly a part of two grades, and pupils who will attend the Dowdell school will be designated by the principal of the Fannin street school; hence all pupils in that district school; hence all pupils in that district should report tomorrow morning at the Fannin street school, and none should go to the Dowdell building until sent there by the principal of the Fannia street

Owing to the overcrowded condition of the schools, the board of school trustees some time ago recommended to the city council the advisability of expending $50,-000 toward securing increased facilities particularly in the way of enlarging the Cascara and Longfellow schools, but thus far no action has been taken on that recommendation, and it is hardly probable that the schools will be given any relief in that direction during this session. Superintendent Kimbrough said to The Post reporter yesterday that all teachers will be at their places in the various schools Monday morning at the usual time and the doors will be open for pupils at the usual time. All pupils should be at their places by 9 o'clock in the morning, so that the work of classification and or-ganization may proceed without delay. Quite a number of the teachers in the different schools have suggested that the work of giving lists of books and supplies needed would be greatly facilitated if the pupils will bring lead pencils and writing paper for use in examinations with them when they apply for admittance. If the do not bring those articles the teachers are delayed in preparing the lists of books and supplies needed by the pupils. But if the pupils are all supplied with pencils and paper the teacher has only to make out one list and the pupils can copy for themselves what they need.

The first meeting of the year of the white teachers' institute was held yesterday morning at the High achool. Superinday morains at the High school. Superintendent Kimbrough was introduced to the assembled feachers by Mr. Majors, principal of the High school. Mr. Kimbrough gave the teachers a talk of half an hour's duration, in which he spoke in the warmest terms of Professor Sutton, his predecessor, and commented upon the hearty welcome that he had received from the principals and teachers of the Houston principals and teachers of the Houston schools. He referred to the excellent con-dition in which he found school matters in this city. He spoke at some length on the function of the schools and gave some valuable pointers and suggestions concerning the work during the coming year.

After Mr. Kimbrough's address Mr. Ma.

jors talked interestingly on the sevent school virtues, and before adjournment T. ough was elected secretary for

The trustoes of the Harris county district schools held a meeting in the office of County School Superintendent B. L. James in the court house vestarday afternoon. The meeting was pooriv attended, but few of the districts being represented. It was decided to have an average school term throughout the county of six months duration, and Superintendent James informed a representative of The Post that this would be done by cutting down the salaries of the teachers, if necessary, in order to make the school hind hold out.

The act meeting of the county school trustees will be held the second Saturday in November.

THE HOUSTON LYCEUM.

It Will Take on New Life in Its More Desirable Quarters.

The time-honored Houston Lyceum has at last awakened from its slumbers, thrown off the lethargy which has for several years impaired its usefuliness, and resolved to take its rightful place among the leading institutions of the city.

At a large and enthusiastic meeting of its members on Thursday night last it was decided to remove from its present undesirable location over the market house, to the large and elegant front rooms which have been secured in the Mason block.

The expense of removal will be considerable, but the money necessary for that purpose was quickly subscribed by

The career of the Houston Lyceum be The career of the Housian Lyceum be-gan forty-one years ago, it having been incorporated by special act of the legisla-ture in 1856, since which time, despite many vicissitudes, it has continuously maintained existence. The older citizens will remember that it was many years ago one of the leading features of the city, but for some years past it has dropped out of public notice and large numbers of our citizens are wholly unaware of its existence, and the benefits to be derived from it. This is believed to be due to unsuitableness of its location, and with its removal to a modern building, equipped with an elevator, thousands will doubtless avail themselves of its privileges, who have hitherto failed to do so.

It has a magnificent library of more than 10,000 volumes, to which will be added at once all the best late books and magazines. The use of this library and reading room is open to the entire public absolutely free of charge. None but members, however, are permitted to take the books to their homes, but the cost of membership is so very small that it is within the reach of every one and should within the reach of every one, and should its members increase to several thousands as it is expected that they will, the cost will be reduced to a merely nominal sum, as the institution is not conducted for profit, but solely for the public good, and no more income is desired than is neces-sary for running expenses, and the purchase of new books from month to me as they make their appearance. It de-serves the hearty support of the public and no doubt is entertained but that it will receive it as soon as it is called to the ator the Benefit of the Widows and Orphans of the Dead Miners.

The grand summer night concert to be given by the musical fraternity of Houston next Thursday evening, September 23, for the benefit of the families of the dead and wounded miners, promises to be one of the most important musical events of the season. The concert will be given in Turner Hall garden and the band will contain thirty-five of the leading professional musicians of the city. This will be the largest concert band ever gotten together in this city and the programme to be rendered will merit a large attendance irrespective of the charitable object of the concert.

In conversation with Professor Franklin Euton, chairman of the committee on arrangements, last night he said: "There have been so many meetings held and so many resolutions passed in sympathy with these people that the Musical union leid a special meeting and decided to give this concert and to ask all members of the musical fraternity to volunteer their services. They have responded to this call in a most gratifying manner, and the musicians, almost to a man are deeply intera most gratifying manner, and the musicians, almost to a man, are deeply interceted in making the affair a grand success. We intend to give all who attend value received for their admission fee, and the concert will afford members of labor organizations and all other citizens an opportunity to extend a little substantial sympathy to a worthy cause. We hope to realize enough to keep many a sair of feet warm this winter and to prevent a good many women and little children from going to bed supperless on more than one occasion."

occasion."

When asked who would lead the Land. When asked who would lead the Land. Professor Eaton said: "All the leaders in the city will olay in the band, but a director will be selected by the unuslosus themselves, who is not a recognized band leader in Houston. The affair was not gotten up to advertise any band or orchestra; the object is sweet charity, pure and simule."
